International Careers Networking Night

Wednesday, April 1st, 2015

Emory University, Miller-Ward Alumni House, 815 Houston Mill Road, Atlanta, GA

Connecting Students to a World of Possibilities!

Brought to you by:
The Career Center | Emory Alumni Association | Center for International Programs Abroad | Goizueta Business School | Emory College Language Center | The Halle Institute | Office of International Student Life | Second Year Experience
Ten Tips for Making the Most of the International Career Networking Night

This event happens once every spring and is for ANYONE who wants to explore international career paths! Join us and mingle with impressive Emory alumni and professionals whose works is international in nature.

1. When you arrive, you’ll receive a Guest Directory to review short biographies and photos of our invited guests. Give yourself extra time by arriving early. We will start with a brief Welcome address.

2. Immediately following the Welcome address, it’s time to mingle! Our guests will be positioned in different areas of the room. This is NOT a career fair, so guests will be mingling with students - not positioned behind tables. The “mixer” format is a lot of fun and makes networking less intimidating and more enjoyable for everyone!

3. Networking is nothing more than conversation between two people getting to know one another. Your STRATEGY is this: simply take an interest in your conversation partner! Introduce yourself with a smile and a firm handshake, then share your name and bits of information you think your listener might like to know about you (i.e. year in school, academic background, and potential career interests). But your main focus will be getting to know THEM.

4. If you’re still nervous, try watching others to see how they approach conversation. It’s okay to approach a student or group of students and a professional who are already talking. Walk up at a polite distance, make eye contact, listen, and await a verbal or nonverbal cue to join in. You will benefit from hearing others’ conversations - don’t wait in a single file line for your turn. Think CIRCLE! When someone makes eye contact, that’s your opportunity to politely break in and introduce yourself. Similarly, you can encourage others who might be shy to join in on YOUR discussions.

5. Think of what questions you’d like to have answered. Here are some examples:
   - How did you get interested in this area of International work? What were you studying as an undergraduate?
   - What personality traits and skills are critical for success in this area? What training or education is required?
   - What’s your average day or week like? What do you enjoy most/least about your work?
   - Can you suggest ways to gain experience to be more competitive for jobs/internships? Do you know someone else I should talk to outside of this event?

6. Keep an OPEN MIND - you will be surprised at some of the unexpected connections you’ll make with people who do not work for organizations on your “hot list”. If you spot someone standing alone, say hello and let them know how much you appreciate their visit to Emory. You will be surprised at some of the less-obvious connections that exist between you, since many of our guests have worked in different environments and have multifaceted career paths and interests. Almost anyone can potentially introduce you to a colleague (potentially outside of this event) who shares your interests - if you only ask!

7. Don’t spend all of your time talking to one person. It’s a good goal to try to speak with 3-5 people at the event. Stretch your comfort zone: networking is one of the most effective tools in educating yourself about career options and finding the right fit in your next job, internship, volunteer role or gap year experience!

8. FOLLOW UP ETIQUETTE: Before leaving a conversation, it’s customary to ask each guest for a business card. This is very important, because you should plan to send a follow-up email as a way of saying thank you to those you spoke with. This forms a lasting impression and smooths the way for future contact. Building relationships is NOT a “one and done” - if you want to talk further, take the initiative to reach out again after the event, and into the future!

9. Our event organizers strive to attract a diverse group of participants. Occasionally, guests who planned to come have last-minute obligations that prevent them doing so. Let us know if there’s someone you missed and we will do our best to assist you in contacting them!

10. Thanks for coming - enjoy yourself, and have some great conversations!
TARYN ARBEITER was raised in Rapid City, SD. She received undergraduate degrees in Political Science and French from St. Olaf College in Northfield, MN. She began her career in the immigration field with undergraduate research on integration of refugees and immigrants in rural Minnesota. In 2012, she joined Lutheran Services of Georgia (LSG), a refugee resettlement agency, as a member of Lutheran Volunteer Corps. She now coordinates LSG’s employment program for new arrivals. As part of LSG’s initiative to visit migrants in detention, Taryn also leads groups of volunteers on monthly visits to Stewart Detention Center, the country’s largest for-profit immigration detention center. In her free time, Taryn enjoys running, biking and performing as a free-lance violinist.

DANIELLA BASS graduated from Georgia State University with a BA in Sociology and Political Science with a concentration in International Affairs in 2012. She later went to the Netherlands to work with refugees and asylum seekers and received a master's degree in Conflict Studies and Human Rights from Universiteit Utrecht in 2014. She returned to Atlanta in 2013 to complete an internship. Daniella is currently an AmeriCorps member at New American Pathways, and has been a volunteer and intern their since 2013. Her interests include refugee/immigrant issues, human rights and cultural/structural violence.

JEREMY BILLETDEAUX Before joining the Center for International Programs Abroad at Emory, Jeremy spent more than 3 years in Study Abroad Programs at Georgia State University and 6 years in the Education Abroad office at Virginia Tech. Prior to entering the field of international education, Jeremy worked for several years as a professor of French at a liberal arts college in Michigan. Jeremy completed his undergraduate degree at Cornell University where he studied French language and literature. He spent his junior year abroad on the EDUCO program in Paris, an experience which ignited a lifelong passion for international education and intercultural development. Jeremy did his graduate work in French literature at Yale University where he specialized in twentieth-century writers, with a particular emphasis on prison narratives, psychoanalysis, and the intersection of autobiography and fiction.

SUZANNE BLOUGH has been actively involved in the field of International Education and Exchange for more than 20 years, and has studied, lived, worked and traveled throughout the world. As the former Director of the International Center at the University of California, Irvine, and the Permanent Residence Specialist at Georgia Tech, Suzy has counseled thousands of international students, scholars, faculty, researchers, medical professionals and accompanying family members. She has also worked closely with international and domestic students at various institutions. In addition, Suzy is enthusiastically involved with numerous international and human rights groups, and as a communications consultant, she assists several non-profit organizations. Currently Suzy holds the position of Community Programs Coordinator with the Georgia Council for International Visitors (GCIV), where she works closely with the staff of GCIV to create valuable international experiences and opportunities for the people of Georgia and emerging leaders around the world, seeking to fulfill GCIV’s vision that every Georgian has the opportunity to be globally engaged. Suzy received her Bachelor of Arts degree from Emory University and her Master of Education (M.Ed.) from the University of Georgia.

LAURA CASTELLI is the Program Assistant for Educational Programs at The Carter Center; a not-for-profit, nongovernmental organization founded by former President Jimmy Carter. The Center seeks to wage peace, fight disease and build hope in a world where people live every day under difficult, life threatening conditions caused by war, disease and famine. Educational Programs oversees the marketing, recruitment, selection and supervision of the approximately 120 interns each year that work in Peace, Health and Operations at the Center. Laura has also worked at the center with the Conflict Resolution and Mental Health Liberia Programs in different capacities. Prior to The Carter Center she has lived and worked in Kenya, Tanzania, and DC; working with groups like Search for Common Ground (SFCG) and International Peace and Security Institute (IPSI). Laura earned both, her undergraduate degree in international relations, with a regional focus on Africa, and her master’s degree in International Peace and Conflict Resolution, from the American University in Washington, DC.

THE CIA is an independent agency responsible for providing national security intelligence to senior US policymakers. The Central Intelligence Agency’s mission: We are the eyes and the ears of the nation and, at times, its hidden hand. We accomplish the mission by: collecting intelligence that matters; providing relevant, timely, and objective all-source analysis; conducting covert action at the direction of the President to preempt threats or achieve United States policy objectives.
KIM DEL GUERCIO is a Strategy Consultant in Deloitte Consulting’s Federal Health practice. In her current project, Kim is supporting the Emory Global Health Institute to design and develop a surveillance network to improve understanding of causes of death in children under 5 in Africa and Asia. Previously, Kim has supported projects with the Bill and Melinda Gates Foundation as well as the Centers for Disease Control and Prevention. She graduated from Emory University’s Rollins School of Public Health in 2010 with a Master’s degree in Public Health with concentrations in Global Health and Public Nutrition. While in graduate school, Kim worked with the Food Fortification Initiative, an international public-private partnership that advocated for improved nutrition. Kim also has experience working on health and economic development projects in the Federated States of Micronesia, South Africa, and Malawi.

RYAN DERNI is a Consultant in Deloitte’s Strategy and Operations practice and has a strong background in global health and international development. As a Deloitte Consultant he worked with the Centers for Disease Control and Prevention (CDC) to provide public health emergency management and training support to the Ebola epidemic response. Ryan holds a Bachelor of Arts in Political Science from the University of Colorado and received his Master’s in Public Health from Emory University’s Rollins School of Public Health. Prior to graduate school, Ryan served in the Peace Corps as a public health advisor in the Republic of Guinea and later worked for the agency’s Africa Bureau in Washington, D.C. as a Country Desk Officer. Ryan has a strong passion for traveling and has voyaged to over 35 countries in Central and South America, Europe, Africa, and Asia.

RAHIM DHANANI Rahim Dhanani’s legal practice has been focused in U.S. Immigration law for over ten years. He has extensive experience handling both business and family immigration matters. Prior to starting The Dhanani Law Firm, LLC, Rahim worked for some of the largest business immigration law firms in the world and represented a variety of clients ranging from established Fortune 500 companies to startup companies with limited resources. Rahim advises businesses on matters involving the hiring and transfer of international personnel. He routinely advises companies on issues pertaining to business and professional visas, PERM labor certifications, immigrant visas, consular representation and citizenship for foreign executives, managers and professionals. In addition to his experience in business immigration matters, Rahim also works extensively in family immigration matters including the preparation and filing of immigrant petitions based on marriage and fiancé visa applications.

MARY EMILY FARNSWORTH works in Refugee Resettlement as an Employment Specialist at Lutheran Services of Georgia. Through a federal grant, she works to help refugees find employment within their first six months in the states. Mary Emily returned six months ago from a year and a half working in Addis Ababa, Ethiopia. She worked there with the Ethiopia ACT Project, an NGO that worked with families affected by HIV. Her role in the project was as an After-School Program Coordinator and Income Generating Activities Coordinator. She is a graduate of Auburn University, where she received a Bachelor of Science in Accounting. After graduation, she began working in Atlanta as a Public Tax Accountant at Frazier & Deeter, LLC, where she worked for two years. During the six months prior to her move to Ethiopia, she worked as the interim staff accountant at Vapor Sports Ministries International.

MEGAN FRIDDLE received her PhD in American Studies from Emory University’s Graduate Institute of the Liberal Arts after completing a MFA in English-Creative Writing at the Pennsylvania State University. She currently serves as Director of the National Scholarships & Fellowships Program in Emory University’s Office for Undergraduate Education where she advises students on academic and professional opportunities in the US and abroad, such as Fulbright Research/Study Awards and English Teaching Assistantships, UK Academic Awards (Marshall, Rhodes, Gates Cambridge), and the Luce Scholars Program.

CHRISTINA GARCIA grew up in Miami, Florida and graduated from Emory University, where she earned a BA in International Studies and Art History. Following her undergraduate career, she joined EDL & Associates, an Atlanta-based art consulting firm and managed the artwork selection, placement and procurement for an array of domestic and international projects. She enrolled in accounting courses at Georgia State University and later earned a Masters of Taxation there. Her accounting career has focused on international tax implications for U.S. filers, initially providing tax compliance services at Bennett Thrasher for domestic and international entities holding real estate investments in the United States and currently assisting multinational organizations with the global mobility of their talent with PwC’s International Assignment Services practice. Although her career has transitioned to tax, Christina continues to engage in the arts community by serving on the board of BURNAWAY, an Atlanta-based nonprofit organization dedicated to providing critical coverage and dialogue about arts in Atlanta and the Southeast.
MARY GRAY is a two-time Emory University graduate, having received her undergraduate degree from Goizueta Business School and her graduate degree in English from Laney Graduate School. She currently works at Delta Air Lines as an analyst in the Revenue Management department. Mary’s passion for international business began during undergrad, during which she either worked or studied on every continent (with the exception of Antarctica).

PRIITIKA GUPTA VIA SKYPE AT 7:40 PM UPSTAIRS IN MILLER ROOM graduated from Emory College in 2014. She majored in Economics and History and outside of classes was involved in Model UN, College Council and Alpha Kappa Psi Professional Business Fraternity. Currently, she works as a Sovereign Risk analyst at Goldman Sachs in Singapore.

KEISHA HAYWOOD joined Emory University’s Institute for Developing Nations (IDN) in 2014. Dr. Haywood earned her BA from Spelman College and a PhD in political science from Emory University. In her current role as program coordinator, Dr. Haywood is responsible for managing IDN’s short and long-term programs, which currently focus on capacity-building for women-focused organizations in Liberia and peacebuilding across borders in Sudan and South Sudan. Before coming to IDN, Dr. Haywood spent three years as an assistant professor at Ramapo College of New Jersey, where she taught courses in the political science, international studies, and Africana studies departments. She has 14 years of research experience on peace agreements and peace processes, secession, armed groups and splinter groups, and ethnic conflict. Dr. Haywood has traveled throughout several different conflict zones in Africa, and has a recently published article in the African Studies Review on South Sudan’s 1997 and 2005 peace processes.

RICHARD HOOD joined the US Air Force as an Aircraft Maintenance Airman in 2001. After deciding that he wanted something more from the military he made the decision to join the Army in 2006 as a Specialist and enlisted as a combat medic arriving at his Advanced Individual training at Fort Sam Houston, TX. After he completed school, he arrived at this first assignment which sent him to Iraq. During deployment, he re-enlisted to become a Licensed vocational nurse. He was next assigned as senior line medic for the 1-22 Infantry at Fort Carson, CO. He was again deployed, but this time to Afghanistan where he and his fellow troops were successful in stabilizing Kandahar City and helping Afghan forces take control. Since then he has been assigned to be an Army Recruiter. He contributes the Army to making him a stronger person and providing him with life-long friends.

MATT KORN holds a Master’s degree in International Development from Ohio University and has 10+ years of NGO experience. Before starting his position as the Director of Donor Development and Constituent Engagement at CARE, he served as the Executive Director of a small NGO in the mountains of Colorado. He considers himself fortunate to have had the opportunity to travel abroad on numerous occasions including time spent in Honduras, Madagascar and Morocco. He looks forward to being a part of the International Careers Networking Night at Emory and sharing more about how the Atlanta Young Professionals for CARE group is supporting CARE’s work in 87 of the world’s poorest countries.

DARIA MAKHOUKOVA is a Strategy Expert based in Atlanta and leads McKinsey’s Global Forces service line, specializing in trends and macroeconomic scenarios. Prior to joining McKinsey, Daria was a Principal in BCG leading strategy projects across multiple industry sectors and geographies. Recent projects include: Go-to-market approach; growth/market entry strategy; portfolio strategy; strategic partnership assessment; and M&A strategies. Prior to consulting, Daria worked in corporate development for Lukoil, managing internal consulting and acquisition strategy projects. She also worked in the investment banking division at Bear, Stearns & Co. where she focused on M&A transactions. Daria holds an MBA from Emory University and a Bachelor and Master of Law degree with honors from NC Federal State University, Russia.
JOHN PARKERSON is an attorney in the international practice group at Hall Booth Smith, P.C. He also serves as the Honorary Consul General and Foreign Trade Counselor of Hungary. Parkerson is Immediate Past President and current Board member of the World Trade Center Atlanta, and he also is Adjunct Professor at Emory University School of Law. Law practice focus is outbound international transactions and compliance (foreign corrupt practices, export controls); although he also assists foreign clients expanding into Georgia. Parkerson previously was an international attorney in Delta Air Lines’ Law Department. Before Delta, he served as a Judge Advocate General Army officer. Education includes degrees from The George Washington University (LL.M.), and Emory University Law School (J.D.); Boston University (M.A., International Relations); Emory University (M.A. and B.A., History). Parkerson is an honor graduate of the U.S. Army Command & General Staff College. He attended The Hague Academy of International Law.

LAURA PERRY BATES joined the Office of the Vice President and Secretary of Emory University in 2008. Her responsibilities include managing the activities and initiatives of the Board of Trustees and Board committees, and the Honorary Degree Committee. Prior to Emory, Laura worked in international operations, for the nonprofit financial services trade association LOMA, which offers education and training solutions to companies in 80 countries. The daughter of a diplomat, Laura was born in Paris, France, and grew up in Washington D.C., Charleston, S.C., and countries including Bulgaria, Czech Republic, and Sweden. She has a BA in political science and French from Agnes Scott College. She worked in Paris, France, for the Mona Bismarck Foundation, and in Japan as an English teacher on its government-sponsored Japan Exchange and Teaching Program (JET).

MARK POWELL holds a BSFS from the Edmund A. Walsh School of Foreign Service, Georgetown University, and a Master’s in National Security and Strategic Studies from the U.S. Naval War College, Newport, R.I. In 2014, he began his assignment as Diplomat-in-Residence, Morehouse College, where he is responsible for U.S. Department of State recruitment in Georgia, Alabama, Mississippi and Tennessee. A veteran career Foreign Service officer, he served most recently in Washington as Senior Advisor to the Coordinator of the Department’s Center for Strategic Counterterrorism Communications to assess and counter extremist messaging by al-Qaeda and affiliated organizations and affiliates, as well as the Islamic State in Iraq and Syria (ISIS).

DAVE RANEY is currently Managing Editor at Habitat for Humanity International and edits their flagship publication Habitat World, which circulates to around 70 countries. His degrees are in English, the latest from Emory, where he served as Director of Publications for the College and in other capacities from 2004-2014. He has also taught English at four universities, has had his writing appear in three dozen journals, newspapers and magazines, and is an average juggler.

CARLA RONCOLI is Associate Director of the Master’s in Development Practice (MDP), an innovative interdisciplinary professional degree program that prepares students for careers in humanitarian and development organizations. She is also Senior Research Scientist in the Department of Anthropology at Emory University. Dr. Roncoli’s research focuses on vulnerability and adaptation to climate change, especially in West and East Africa. Through extensive community-based research she seeks to understand how rural households perceive and manage multiple stresses – including those stemming from the realms of climate, environment, security, market, and health. Her research has informed the development of science-based decision support and early warning systems by international organizations and federal agencies, including, the World Bank, USAID, FAO, NOAA and USDA.

STEPHANIE SEARS graduated from Emory College in 2002 with a B.A. in Sociology. Shortly after graduation, she began working for the American Society of Mechanical Engineers (ASME). At ASME, she held various positions focused around managing international engineering conferences. Stephanie was involved in all aspects of the conference planning, including business development, site selection, relationship building, and contract negotiations. In 2014, Stephanie completed her MBA at Goizueta and changed careers and industries. She is now the Director of Global Operations Business Planning and Analysis at Equifax.
JILLIAN SICO is New Roots Program Coordinator for the International Rescue Committee (IRC) in Atlanta. The IRC in Atlanta’s New Roots program works toward a vision of a healthy, vibrant community where refugees arriving in Atlanta develop the knowledge, opportunity, and access to tools and resources needed to make healthy choices for themselves and their families. To achieve this vision, the IRC focuses on food justice and gardening with high school-aged youth, community gardening, and food secure resettlement for newly-arriving refugees, including nutrition education, advocacy, and health screenings. Jillian graduated with an MA in Anthropology from the University of Georgia in May 2013, with a focus on refugee studies. Her previous experience includes organic farming, gardening, and non-profit environmental advocacy.

BRANDY SIMULA As Assistant Director of the National Scholarships and Fellowships Program, Brandy Simula advises students on preparing and applying for national scholarships, fellowships, and grants and works with the Director on outreach and programming to recruit and support applicants. Dr. Simula is a 2004 summa cum laude graduate of Appalachian State University, where she received her B.A. in Sociology, French, and Interdisciplinary Studies, and her B.S. in History. She did graduate coursework in Sociology at Florida State University and received her PhD in Women’s, Gender, and Sexuality Studies from Emory University in 2012. She was the 2011-2012 Graduate Fellow of the Center for Women at Emory, where she worked on outreach, social media, and programming, and developed the Great Sex Series, a sexual education program for Emory undergraduates. Prior to joining the National Scholarships & Fellowships program, she held an appointment as Visiting Assistant Professor of Sociology at Emory, where she taught courses in gender, sexualities, and social psychology.

LINDA SPENCER received her law degree from the University of Florida and her undergraduate degree from The Ohio State University, with dual majors in International Business and Marketing. After spending the first part of her legal career at King & Spalding in Atlanta, Georgia, Linda joined the The Coca-Cola Company in 2002 as Litigation, Labor & Employment Counsel. In that role, Linda supported the Global Workplace Rights Group from its inception and handled a number of high profile international litigation matters. Linda Spencer is Senior Managing Counsel, Global Labor, Employment & Benefits for The Coca-Cola Company. In that role, Linda is responsible for the Labor, Employment & Benefits legal team supporting the Global Human Resources function, including legal support for Strategic Security, Compensation & Benefits, Diversity & Inclusion, Global Workplace Rights, Employee Relations, Labor Relations, Learning & Development, and Talent Acquisition.

MEGAN SULLIVAN TOE is Program Associate for the Liberia Mental Health Initiative at The Carter Center. She manages project implementation activities, including financial and operational support, for the Liberia field office. The Mental Health Liberia Initiative is a partnership between Liberia’s Ministry of Health, and The Carter Center with the objective to improve access to mental health services through policy supports, workforce development and stigma reduction efforts. Prior to joining The Carter Center in 2012, Megan worked with a grassroots NGO supporting community leaders in Ghana and Liberia. Ms. Toe received a M.S.W. on the Community Empowerment and Program Development track, and a certificate in Non-Profit Management from the University of Georgia and a B.A. in sociology from the State University of New York at Fredonia.

STEPHANIE URIBE As program associate Stephanie Uribe is responsible for researching, designing, implementing, and coordinating Mental Health Program activities, including the Rosalynn Carter Fellowships for Mental Health Journalism and the Carter Center’s stigma reduction activities in both the United States and Colombia. Prior to joining The Carter Center, Ms. Uribe worked as an undergraduate admission adviser for multicultural recruitment at Emory University. She holds a Master of Science in international relations from the Instituto de Empresa in Madrid and a Master of Science in human development counseling from Vanderbilt University where she also earned a Bachelor of Science in human and organizational development.

MARIFEL VERLOHR is the associate director of international programs at Emory’s Alumni Association. She is responsible for building and engaging alumni located outside of the U.S. primarily through her work with Emory’s 24 international alumni chapters. Marifel has a Master’s degree in International Relations and Pacific Studies from the University of California San Diego and a Bachelor’s degree in Economics from the University of San Francisco. Previous work experiences included management positions at the Juvenile Diabetes Research Foundation, the Atlanta Committee for the Olympic Games and United Way of San Diego County.
MAJA (MAYA) VUJINOVIĆ VIA SKYPE AT 8:10 PM UPSTAIRS IN MILLER ROOM

Maja is a CEO/Founder of Orpheus Investments. Orpheus focuses on advisory, project management and execution by helping clients unlock financing for long term investing in the US and high growth markets (Latin America and Africa). Prior to Orpheus, Maja steered a fast-track career moving into frontier markets in her twenties. She has worked in and with United States law firms, European, Middle Eastern, Africa and Latin American private and public entities, which resulted in her living and working in over 18 places in the world. Maja served as a Senior Investment Officer for Zakhem International/Fometno al Desarrollo where she led acquisition and project development of various energy assets. Before coming to Zakhem, Maja was a Director of Strategy and Corporate Development for TenexCo., instrumental in management of energy, mining and health care initiatives, policy development for various African governments, private investors and practical implementation with budget development.

LESLIE WINGATE has served as Senior Director, Alumni Programs at the Emory Alumni Association since 2004. International alumni chapters and programming fall under her team. Leslie’s international work includes 10 years as Executive Director of the French-American Chamber of Commerce, Atlanta Chapter and 3 years with the French Trade Commission in Atlanta, a French government office. The summer after graduating from Emory College, she worked at Eastern Airlines as a French-English interpreter. The daughter of a diplomat, Leslie spent all her high school years at a small boarding school in southwest England. She went to Middlebury College her freshman year of college, transferred to Emory her sophomore year, spent her junior year in Biarritz and Paris on the Hamilton College Junior Year Abroad Program, and came back to Emory her senior year, graduating with a degree in Liberal Studies, with a concentration on French, in 1982. Leslie just returned from a 2-week tour of Korea and China as part of an Emory delegation.

WITOLD ZABINSKI is Managing Principal of Corporate Strategies International, Inc. Mr. Zabinski has fourteen years of senior level experience in the financial industry in Dallas, Houston, Baltimore, Washington, and Atlanta. He and his five associates have used their wide-ranging expertise to help clients in the specialized areas of management consulting, banking, finance, sales, distribution and marketing. Mr. Zabinski earned a Bachelor of Industrial Engineering degree from the Georgia Institute of Technology and an MBA from Mercer University in Atlanta. A native of Poland, he speaks Polish, English, and Russian.

No matter how far you are from campus—whether you are separated by mountains or oceans—you can maintain ties with Emory. Our international chapters support the mission of the Emory Alumni Association by strengthening relationships among local alumni, parents, and friends; by providing lifelong learning and leadership opportunities; and by facilitating regional participation in the life of the University.

A list of current international chapters is below. For information on getting involved with one of our international chapters, please contact Marifel Verlohr at Marifel.Verlohr@emory.edu.

- Argentina
- Austria
- Brazil
- Cayman Islands
- China
- France
- Germany
- Greece
- Hong Kong
- India
- Japan
- Singapore
- South Africa
- Southeastern Europe
- South Korea
- Spain
- Switzerland
- Turkey
- United Arab Emirates
- United Kingdom